DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Election/Restrictions

2. Applicant's election of Group I in Paper No. 11 is acknowledged. Because applicant did not distinctly and specifically point out the supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election has been treated as an election without traverse (MPEP § 818.03(a)).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

4. Claims 3-5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as containing subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

The Sk determined by the 3D roughness measurement along with an Ek value and the L* according to ASTM D2244-89, section 6.2 are unclear, since these measurements were not well describe in the specification. It is understood that these values are related to the roughness measurements. Therefore, the claimed invention will be examined related as the roughness measurements. Clarification and correction is required.

5. Claims 2-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

A broad range or limitation together with a narrow range or limitation that falls within the broad range or limitation (in the same claim) is considered indefinite, since the resulting claim does not clearly set forth the metes and bounds of the patent protection desired. Note the explanation given by the Board of Patent Appeals and Interferences in Ex parte Wu, 10 USPQ2d 2031, 2033 (Bd. Pat. App. & Inter. 1989), as to where broad language is followed by "such as" and then narrow language. The Board stated that this can render a claim indefinite by raising a question or doubt as to whether the feature introduced by such language is (a) merely exemplary of the remainder of the claim, and therefore not required, or (b) a required feature of the claims. Note also, for example, the decisions of Ex parte Steigewald, 131 USPQ 74 (Bd. App. 1961); Ex parte Hall, 83 USPQ 38 (Bd. App. 1948); and Ex parte Hasche, 86 USPQ 481 (Bd. App. 1949). In the present instance, claims 2-6 recites the broad recitation of a value, and the claim also recites "preferentially" which is the narrower statement of the range/limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

8. Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sawada et al (US 5,350,010, and further in view of Higuchi et al (US 5,853,806).

Sawada et al disclose an aluminum strip, with a rough surface, produce by rolling. The thickness of the strip is 1 to 3 mm (col. 4, lines 35-42) with grain size of less than 20 micron (col.

Art Unit: 1725

18, line 37). The aluminum is between 0.1 and 2% silicon and 0.01 to 2% iron (col. 4, lines 39-42), and that magnesium is less than 1.5%, since magnesium is not present.

Sawada et al fail to disclose strip undergoing sulphur anodic treatment and that the change in roughness is less than 20.

Higuchi et al disclose acid pickling treatment on an aluminum strip wherein the surface roughness difference is less than 20 (col. 10, lines 64-67 through col. 11, lines 1-9) for the purpose of building a corrosion resistance part.

Therefore, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to provide acid pickling treatment with a mean roughness difference of less than 20 as taught by Higuchi et al, in Sawada et al in order to enhance corrosion resistant.

Higuchi et al lacks the mentioning of the formula:

Higuchi et al mentions the mean roughness as a range and do not mention a differences of the maximum and minimum. However, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time applicant's invention was made to achieve the above formula, since it has been held that where the general condition of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, discovering an optimum range involves only routine skill in the art. In re Aller, 105 USPQ 233.
